Indian Council of Forestry Research and Education (ICFRE), has established eight regional institutes in different bio geographical zones of the country. Rain Forest Research Institute is situated in the Jorhat District of Assam in the North eastern part of India. The Institute came into existence in April 1988, although its origin dated back to 1976 when a Regional Centre of Forest Research Institute, Dehra Dun, was established at Burnihat (Assam) to extend knowledge on forestry related issues through research, education and extension in general and to support forestry research in north eastern states of Arunachal Pradesh, Assam, Manipur, Meghalaya, Mizoram, Nagaland and Tripura. The Centre advanced steadily in terms of infrastructure and established itself as a nucleus for research on forestry and ecology related issues of the region. Recognising the importance and excellence of the Centre, ICFRE upgraded it to a full-fledged Institute in 1998, originally known as Institute of Rain and Moist Deciduous Forest Research (IRMDER) and now known as the Rain Forest Research Institute (RFRI). In the recent past, the council has included Sikkim under its jurisdiction. The Institute has evolved into one of repute, delivering yeoman service in the field of forestry resources and technology extension to all NE states including Sikkim. The multidisciplinary scientific manpower of the Institute delivers need based technological achievements in forestry science leading towards conservation, protection, eco-restoration and management of forest resources. The tested technologies, developed under different research projects, are transferred to the stakeholders through its Regional Capacity Building Programmes under Demo Village and Van Vigyan Kendras (VVKs) in the states.

The headquarters of the Institute is located at Jorhat in Assam. An Advanced Research Centre for Bamboo and Rattan (ARCBR) has been established at Aizawl in Mizoram in the year 2004.

The ARCBR was established in Aizawl (Mizoram) as a unit of the Rain Forest Research Institute, Jorhat as per the decisions of Standing Finance Committee, Ministry of Environment & Forest, Govt. of India in its meeting dated 26th August 2004. The Centre was formally started with the foundation stone laid by Hon'ble Minister of State Shri Namo Narayan Meena, Ministry of Environment and Forests, Govt. of India on 29th Nov. 2004 at Bethlehem Venghlang, Aizawl.
